About the International Seminar :

Gender equality is a cornerstone of development. When women and men are equal in a society, poverty is reduced, economies flourish, and the health of children and mothers improve. When women are not able to reach their potential professionally, it affects not just their own lives but makes the whole society poorer. Women empowerment brings with it economic and social benefits for the entire population. The principle of gender equality is enshrined in the Indian Constitution in its Preamble, Fundamental Rights, Fundamental Duties and Directive Principles. The Constitution not only grants equality to women, but also empowers the State to adopt measures of positive discrimination in favour of women. Hence, it is necessary to motivate women through seminars, symposiums, workshops, group discussions etc. so that they come forward to take part in socio-economic, political and other development processes which will not only reduce discrimination among men and women but also it will be beneficial for the whole society.

Objectives of the Seminar:
