Report On International Women's Day & Basanta Utsav – 09/03/2023

“If you educate a man you educate an individual, but if you educate a woman you educate a family (nation)” is a quotation that suggests how vital is the role of a woman in a family as well as the society, at large. It has been found that the child starts learning ever since it is in the mother's womb which is evident from the story of Mahabharata where Abhimanyu, the great warrior son of Arjuna learned how to break the Chakravyun when he was in the womb of Subhadra before birth as Arjuna was narrating the art to Subhadra. As Arjuna started to say how to come out of that Chakravyun, she felt asleep and thus Abhimanyu could not acquire that skill. Human beings have different layers of the mind viz., the conscious, sub-conscious and unconscious. Information is stored at all these layers in certain of period of time. There are various meditation techniques, which Abhimanyu must have used, that lead to the remembrance of things that are situated in all these layers of the mind.

Objective: The dream of Vivekananda's man making can be easily attained once women are imparted right education at the right time so they can live a full-fledged life like everyone else. Vivekananda always talked about independence of women. He was against the idea of protecting women. Rather, he wanted the women to be imparted right education so they could stand on their own feet. Providing with education is the best thing a woman can receive. This day is celebrated overseas with love and respect by raising awareness about various aspects like education, safety, dignity, value, self-dependence and health of women which in turn shall inevitably lead to true well-being of women.

Report On International Mother's Language Day – 21/02/2023

International Mother Language Day recognizes that languages and multilingualism can advance inclusion, and the Sustainable Development Goals focus on leaving no one behind. UNESCO encourages and promotes multilingual education based on mother tongue or first language. It is a type of education that begins in the language that the learner masters most and then gradually introduces other languages. This approach enables learners whose mother tongue is different from the language of instruction to bridge the gap between home and school, to discover the school environment in a familiar language, and thus, learn better.

Multilingualism contributes to the development of inclusive societies that allow multiple cultures, worldviews and knowledge systems to coexist and cross-fertilize.

The theme of the 2023 International Mother Language Day, "Multilingual education – a necessity to transform education" aligns with recommendations made during the Transforming Education Summit, where an emphasis was also placed on Indigenous people's education and languages.

Multilingual education based on mother-tongue facilitates access to and inclusion in learning for population groups that speak non-dominant languages, languages of minority groups and indigenous languages.

Objectives: The main objective of International Mother Language Day is to promote linguistic and cultural diversity, multilingualism, and the preservation and protection of all languages, especially endangered ones. The day aims to raise awareness about the importance of linguistic diversity in promoting cultural understanding, peaceful coexistence, and sustainable development.

The observance of International Mother Language Day also serves as an opportunity to celebrate and promote the use of mother tongues, which are an important part of people's cultural heritage and identity. The day encourages people to take pride in their mother language and to use it in their daily lives, in education, and in other aspects of society.

Another objective of International Mother Language Day is to promote the use of multilingual education and to encourage the development of language policies that support linguistic diversity and promote social inclusion. The day provides a platform for policymakers, educators, and other stakeholders to discuss and share best practices for language education and language policy.

Ultimately, the objective of International Mother Language Day is to promote the idea that linguistic and cultural diversity is a source of strength and a means of achieving a more peaceful and sustainable world. By celebrating linguistic and cultural diversity, the day aims to build greater awareness and understanding among different communities and to foster greater respect and tolerance for all languages and cultures.

In short, the aim of International Mother Language Day is to promote the preservation and protection of all languages, especially endangered ones, as well as to encourage people to use and promote their mother tongue. The day also aims to raise awareness about the importance of linguistic diversity in promoting cultural understanding, peaceful coexistence, and sustainable development.

Faculty of Education, of ICFAI University celebrated International Mother's Language Day on, February 21st 2023, between 03:00 pm to 5:30 pm.

Report on Gender Sensitization: Society, Culture, and Change

From 30/08/24 to 03/09/24 the Faculty of Management and Commerce at ICFAI University Tripura hosted a pivotal session titled "Gender Sensitization: Society, Culture, and Change" aimed at first-year BBA students. This event was meticulously organized to address crucial issues surrounding gender, harassment, and the societal impacts of these issues, fostering a deeper understanding and encouraging progressive attitudes among the students. The session was designed with a clear objective: to enlighten students about gender issues and the significant consequences of harassment, thereby promoting a more respectful and inclusive environment. It sought to achieve the following:

- To provide students with a thorough understanding of gender sensitization, including the nuances of gender identity, roles, and equality.
- To spotlight the prevalence of gender-based harassment and its profound effects on individuals and society.
- To inspire students to adopt inclusive attitudes and behaviors that transcend traditional gender norms.
- To equip students with practical advice on addressing and reporting instances of harassment or discrimination.

The session commenced with a brief introduction, where the organizers articulated the purpose of the event and outlined the agenda. This was followed by a detailed lecture designed to engage and educate the students on various aspects of gender sensitization. The lecture began with a foundational overview of gender sensitization, defining it as the process of fostering awareness and understanding of gender issues. The speaker explained key concepts such as gender identity, which refers to an individual's internal sense of their gender, and gender roles, which are societal expectations based on one's gender. The discussion highlighted the significance of gender equality and the need to challenge traditional stereotypes that often perpetuate discrimination and inequality. Following the introduction, the focus shifted to societal and cultural perspectives on gender. The speaker provided a historical context, tracing the evolution of gender norms and their impact on societal structures. The influence of cultural practices and societal expectations on gender perceptions was examined, revealing how deeply ingrained biases can affect personal interactions and institutional policies. The session emphasized that understanding these cultural dimensions is crucial for addressing and transforming gender-based inequalities. The latter part of the session addressed the critical issue of harassment. The speaker detailed various forms of harassment, including sexual harassment, workplace harassment, and bullying, and discussed their repercussions on victims. The emphasis was on the psychological, emotional, and professional impacts that harassment can have on individuals. By presenting real-life scenarios and case studies, the session illustrated the far-reaching consequences of harassment and the importance of creating safe environments for everyone. To ensure active participation and engagement, the session included interactive elements such as Q&A sessions, group discussions, and role-playing exercises. These activities allowed students to reflect on their own experiences, discuss potential solutions, and develop a greater empathy for those affected by gender-related issues.

The session concluded with a summary of key takeaways and an invitation for students to engage in further learning and advocacy. Resource materials and contact information for support services were provided to empower students with tools and knowledge to address gender issues proactively. Overall, the "Gender Sensitization: Society, Culture, and Change" session was a significant step toward fostering a more informed and respectful student body at ICFAI University Tripura. By addressing gender issues comprehensively, the event aimed to inspire positive change and equip students with the understanding needed to contribute to a more inclusive society.
