He emphasized that the legal profession is a noble profession and therefore requires individuals to possess not only academic knowledge but also strong professional character, ethical values, and a sense of responsibility.

Principal Sir highlighted several essential qualities that every legal aspirant should develop, including:

Punctuality—respecting time and fulfilling professional commitments within the prescribed deadlines.

Listening Skills –carefully understanding the concerns, arguments, and perspectives of others before responding.

Honesty and Integrity – maintaining truthfulness, fairness, and ethical conduct in both personal and professional life.

Moral Values and Principles– developing a strong sense of right and wrong and adhering to professional ethic.

Responsibility—performing professional duties with sincerity, accountability, and dedication. He further emphasised that these qualities are fundamental to building a successful and respected career in the legal profession.

4. Speech of the Adv. Ranagopal Chakraborty

Learned Advocate and Secretary the Bar Council of Tripura,

Delivered an insightful and motivating address on professional ethics, the duties of advocates, and the responsibilities attached to the legal profession.

During his speech, he shared several experiences from his college life. He candidly explained that, during his student days, there were occasions when he could not answer all the questions even during the examinations time he focused primarily on specific subjects and topics with the objective of securing the minimum passing marks. His experiences illustrated the difference between merely pursuing academic success and developing the deeper knowledge and professional commitment required in the legal profession.

He explained that his approach towards studies and professional life changed significantly after he entered the legal profession. He became more serious about his responsibilities and began to understand the importance of professional knowledge, discipline, and ethical conduct.

His emphasis was on the importance of the Advocates Act, 1961, along with the rules framed by the Bar Council of India. He emphasized that advocates must be familiar with the statutory provisions and professional standards governing the legal profession.

5. Address by Mr.Siddhartha Sankar Choudhury

Personality Development of Legal Aspirants

The second major session was delivered by Mr. Siddhartha Sankar Choudhury, Personality Development Coach and Counselor. His session focused on the importance of personality development and practical skills for aspiring legal professionals.

He explained that academic examination results and the practical application of academic knowledge in professional life are two different aspects. Merely achieving good marks in examinations does not automatically ensures success in professional life. The practical world is different from classroom and curriculum-based learning, and students must therefore develop additional skills and qualities to succeed in their future careers.

5. Concluding Remarks by Dr. Anindita Choudhury:

At the conclusion of the program ,Dr.Anindita Choudhury expressed that such programs are highly valuable and particularly beneficial for law students.She emphasized that session on professional ethics and personality development provide students with practical knowledge and guidance that cannot be gained solely through classroom-based curriculum. She extended her special thanks and gratitude to the distinguished resource persons for sharing their valuable knowledge, professional experiences, and guidance with the students.
