N J Y Centre for Postgraduate Legal Research has Organised a Special Lecture Session on “Constitutional Rights, Values and Ethics” on 20th June, 2022. Mr. Swapan Debbarma, Assistant Professor, Tripura Govt. Law College was the key note speaker. The program is mainly a lecture by the resource person on Constitutional Rights, Values and ethics. The lecture was organised with an objective to inform the students, research scholars about the constitutional rights and the constitutional values and the principles. The Constitution of India is a living document which ensures to the people their rights which are inalienable. The right of the people have been given primary importance in the constitution as because in a democratic country the right of the people are the sine qua non. Though most of the rights are not absolute, these are subject to the other values and the ethics of the constitution.

Though the 42nd amendment inserted certain basic duties of the citizen in the constitution, but at the inception there were no such duties. There are rights of the people which are to be enforced against the state in case of any violation. These rights are given in the part III of the constitution which are very fundamental and are inalienable. The duties are given for the state in the part IV of the constitution in the form of certain directives for the governance. Though these directives are not enforceable as the fundamental rights of the people but it is stated that these directives are fundamental for the governance of the country. The state is to strive to implement the directives subject to the availability of the resources.

Therefore there are very holistic cohesion of the rights, duties and various values and principles in our constitution. This is needed to be discussed to the students and the scholars in a very elaborate manner. The lecture program is organised in this ends to have a very eloquent discourse over these issues.

About Pro Bono Legal Services:

Pro Bono Legal services program was launched in April 2017. An initiative of the Department of Justice, the program is aimed at fulfilling the Department's critical mandate of enhancing "access to justice" for marginalised sections of the society and the State's constitutional obligation of providing "free legal aid" for all. The program seeks to put in place an institutional structure which will promote pro bono culture in India. On one hand, the program would facilitate delivery of quality legal assistance to the marginalised communities, on the other hand it would ensure that lawyers who volunteer their valuable time and service, towards this public service, are duly recognized for their contribution.

Summary of the Programs held:

Symposium on "Access to Justice" on 14.05.2022

Article 14 of the Indian Constitution provides that, "The State shall not deny to any person equality before the law and the equal protection of the laws within the territory of India". This implies a right in every individual within the territory of India, and a duty on State to ensure that legal protection is accessible to all irrespective of social or economic constraints. To quote Martin Luther King "Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere". Access to justice is a basic right that guarantees protection of law to all. It is integral to rule of law. No one is above the law, not even the State. Everyone should be able to seek protection of the laws and legal redress for their grievances.

Free legal Aid is a directive enshrined under Article 39A of the Constitution of India that provides for free legal aid to the poor and weaker sections of the society and ensures justice for all. But, this directive has been elevated to the status of a Fundamental Right by Justice Bhagwati in the landmark decision of Hussainara Khatoon (1979) by ruling that free legal aid is a necessary concomitant of right to life and personal liberty guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. He observed, "Article 39A emphasizes that free legal service is an inalienable element of 'reasonable, fair and just' procedure; for without it a person suffering from economic or other disabilities would be deprived of the opportunity for securing justice. The right to free legal services is, therefore, clearly an essential ingredient of 'reasonable, fair and just' procedure for a person accused of an offence and it must be held implicit in the guarantee of Article 21."

ICFAI plants tree on World Earth Day

■ NEC Report

Agartala, Apr 22: World Earth Day is an annual event celebrated around the world every year on April 22 as a part of awareness to protect the environment, restore damaged ecosystems and live a more sustainable life. The world is facing a spurt of climate events over the last decade or more that have affected millions of people, from extreme heat to wildfires and floods. Climate change, man-made changes to nature as well as crimes that disrupt biodiversities, such as deforestation, land-use change, intensified agriculture, and livestock production, or the growing illegal wildlife trade, can accelerate the speed of destruction of the planet. This year the theme of World Earth Day is 'Invest in our Planet'. To celebrate the Day significantly, the ICFAI University Tripura has organized a Tree Plantation Program on 22nd April 2022 in association with West Tripura District Legal Services Authority. 300 numbers of saplings of various species have been sponsored by West Tripura District Legal Services Authority. The Registrar, Deans of various faculties, Academics, Research, and other heads of departments of the University took part in the plantation ceremony by planting the saplings inside the campus.
